DEFENDANT ROSELAND COMMUNITY HOSPITAL ASSOCIATION'S ANSWER AND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES TO PLAINTIFF'S COMPLAINT

Defendant, Roseland Community Hospital Association ("Roseland"), through its undersigned counsel Wilson Elser Moskowitz Edelman & Dicker LLP, for its Answer to Plaintiff's Complaint, asserts as follows:

I. NATURE OF THE CASE

1. This action seeks to recover damages and civil penalties on behalf of the United States of America and the State of Illinois arising from false statements and claims made or caused to be made by the Defendants to: (1) the United States and its agents and intermediaries in violation of the Federal False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729 et seq. (the "FCA"); (2) the State of Illinois and its agents in violation of the Illinois False Claims Act, 740 ILCS 175/1 et seq (the "IFCA"); and (3) Illinois insurance companies, insured persons and their agents, and intermediaries in violation of the Illinois Insurance Claims Fraud Prevention Act, 740 ILCS 92/1 et seq. (the "ICFPA").

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 1 only to the extent that it describes the general nature of this lawsuit while denying any liability under (1) the Federal False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. §§ 3729 et seq. (the "FCA"); (2) the Illinois False Claims Act, 740 ILCS 175/1 et seq. (the "IFCA"); and/or (3) the Illinois Insurance Claims Fraud Prevention Act, 740 ILCS 92/1 et seq. (the "ICFPA").

2. During the COVID-19 Pandemic, the Defendants provided testing for patients to determine whether they were positive for the COVID-19 virus. However, as detailed below, rather than rally to the public health, the defendants took advantage of the global and national health emergency to profiteer, prescribing and billing for medically unnecessary tests and even for services that were never actually provided. Defendants did this at the expense of taxpayers and private insurance companies, aware that Congress had passed legislation requiring absolute payment for COVID-19 related treatment, including testing. Defendants' conduct is particularly egregious because it took place at a "Safety Net Hospital" that serves economically disadvantaged people, many of which are also members of the minority community that has been hit especially hard by the COVID pandemic. While these disadvantaged patients suffered, the Defendants billed and were paid millions of dollars for services that were medically unnecessary or were never provided at all.

ANSWER: Roseland objects to the allegations in this Paragraph to the extent they constitute an improper group pleading as to all defendants and fails to identify or separate the different roles played by each defendant relative to patient testing during the COVID-19 Pandemic. To the extent a response is required, Roseland admits that certain Defendants provided certain testing to certain patients to determine whether they were positive for COVID-19 during the COVID-19 pandemic. Roseland denies the balance of the allegations, as pled, in Paragraph 2.

3. This misconduct began in early March 2020, when the COVID-19 public health crisis first struck the United States and there was a national priority on testing to identify persons with active COVID-19 infections. At that time, Roseland formulated a plan to provide drive thru testing for the virus. Two very different types of testing were then available: diagnostic tests and serology tests. The diagnostic tests include molecular tests, or PCR, tests. These tests are usually performed via a nasal swab and are used by health professionals to detect and determine active infection with the virus that causes COVID-19. On the other hand, the serology test is a blood test used to detect the presence of antibodies, which can indicate whether the patient previously had COVID-19. Serology tests are not used to detect the active presence of the COVID-19 infection.

ANSWER: Roseland denies that it engaged in any misconduct and therefore denies the collection of allegations in Paragraph 3 as a whole. Roseland admits that as a result of the COVID-19 health crisis, it formulated a plan to provide drive thru testing for the COVID-19 virus. Roseland further admits that at that time, two different types of testing were available: diagnostic tests and serology tests. Roseland admits the stated description of diagnostic tests and serology tests.

4. Rather than make an individual medical determination as to the type of testing that was medically appropriate for each patient, and without sharing information about the different purposes for the tests, Roseland encouraged patients who wanted to be tested for active COVID-19 infection to receive both PCR and serology tests. Roseland used different tactics to do this, including by telling patients that the results of the serology test would be provided much more quickly than the PCR test without also telling them that the test was medically unnecessary and could not detect an active COVID-19 infection.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations in Paragraph 4 as pled.

5. Apparently not content to just make additional money by conducting and submitting claims for the unnecessary serology tests, several months into the Pandemic, Roseland and AML determined that they could make even more money by performing and billing for full blood panels as part of the serology test, even though the patient's inquiry was limited to COVID-19 screening. As a result, Roseland and AML were able to increase the amount they billed and were reimbursed for a single serology test from approximately $150 to $800 for what would be tens of thousands of tests.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 5 as pled.

6. Moreover, Roseland employed Dr. Terrill Applewhite, an independent contractor, as Medical Director overseeing the hospital's COVID-19 response. Applewhite and his company, Five Apples Inpatient Specialists LLC ("Five Apples") billed for services related to COVID-19 testing that were never provided. Specifically, Applewhite billed his time, certifying that he had conducted patient visits relating to and stemming from patients' COVID-19 testing even though Applewhite provided no such services. Rather, it was AML that analyzed test samples and provided test results directly to patients. Applewhite billed $144 each for tens of thousands of such fictional "visits".

ANSWER: Roseland denies that it employed Dr. Terrill Applewhite, but admits that it retained Dr. Applewhite as an independent contractor with the title of Medical Director to oversee Roseland's COVID-19 response. Upon information and belief, Roseland admits that it came to understand that based on Roseland's investigation, Applewhite and Five Apples Inpatient Specialists LLC ("Five Apples") may have billed for services related to COVID-19 testing that were never provided, and Roseland contacted representatives of the United States Government regarding Dr. Applewhite's billing practices. Roseland admits that AML processed patient test samples. Upon information and belief, Roseland denies the allegation that AML provided test results directly to patients. Roseland lacks sufficient information or knowledge from which to admit or deny the number of patients Dr. Applewhite billed for seeing or the amounts of such billings. Roseland denies the balance of the allegations of Paragraph 6 as pled.

7. The Relator is an employee of Roseland where he works as the Senior Director of Development. He was involved with Roseland's COVID-19 initiative but only became aware of the unnecessary testing and false billing when he received Explanations of Benefits ("BOB") from his insurance carrier for several COVID-19 tests performed on his own children.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that as of the time of the filing of this Complaint, the Relator was an employee of Roseland where he worked as the Senior Director of Development. Roseland denies that Relator is currently employed by Roseland. Roseland admits that Relator was involved with Roseland's COVID-19 initiative. Roseland denies that Defendants engaged in unnecessary testing and false billing and accordingly denies the balance of the allegations in Paragraph 7 as pled.

8. When he asked about the additional tests being run on his child's blood sample, the Relator was told frankly that Roseland and AML decided to run additional tests on the blood work to increase the Roseland's and AML's profits.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 8 as pled.

9. The Relator also told Roseland about Applewhite's false billing practices. Recognizing the fraud perpetuated by Applewhite, Roseland terminated its relationship with the doctor on or about January 21, 2021 but did not report the prior false billings for tens of thousands of tests to anyone outside the hospital, thus concealing Applewhite's conduct.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that it discussed Dr. Applewhite's billing practices with Relator. Roseland admits that it terminated its relationship with Dr. Applewhite on or about January 21, 2021. Roseland denies that it did not report certain false billings to anyone outside the hospital and denies that it concealed Dr. Applewhite's conduct. Roseland denies any remaining allegation in Paragraph 9 not specifically admitted. Answering in the affirmative, Roseland states that it informed representatives of the United States Government regarding Dr. Applewhite's billing practice.

10. The FCA provides that any person who knowingly presents, or causes to be presented, a false or fraudulent claim to the U.S. Government for payment or approval is liable for a civil penalty of up to $11,000 for each such claim, plus three times the amount of the damages sustained by the Government.

ANSWER: Paragraph 10 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland states that the FCA speaks for itself. Roseland denies that it is liable under the FCA.

11. The FCA permits any person having information about a false or fraudulent claim against the Government to bring an action for himself and the Government, and to share in any recovery. The Act requires that the complaint be filed under seal for a minimum of 60 days (without service on the defendant during that time) to allow the Government time to conduct its own investigation and to determine whether to join the suit.

ANSWER: Paragraph 11 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland states that the FCA speaks for itself.

12. Similarly, the IFCA provides that any person who knowingly presents or causes to be presented a false claim to the State of Illinois (the "State" or "Illinois") for payment or approval is liable for a civil penalty for each such claim presented or paid, plus three times the amount of the damages sustained by the government and other relief. The IFCA also permits any person having information regarding a false claim to bring an action as a Relator or qui tam plaintiff.

ANSWER: Paragraph 12 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland states that the IFCA speaks for itself. Roseland denies that it is liable under the IFCA.

13. The ICFPA, 740 ILCS 92/1-45, provides that any person who knowingly obtains, attempts to obtain or causes to be obtained, by deception, the property of an insurance company by the making of a false claim or by causing a false claim to be made on any policy of insurance issued by an insurance company is liable for a civil penalty of not less than $5,000 nor more than $10,000, plus an assessment of not more than three times the amount of each claim for compensation.

ANSWER: Paragraph 13 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland states that the ICFPA speaks for itself. Roseland denies that it is liable under the ICFPA.

14. ICFPA's qui tam provision, 740 ILCS 92/15, provides that any interested person may bring a civil action, in the name of the State of Illinois, for violations of ILCS 92/1-45, and by incorporation, 720 ILCS 5/46-1.

ANSWER: Paragraph 14 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland states that the ICFPA speaks for itself. Roseland denies that it is liable under the ICFPA.

15. Roseland and AML knowingly and intentionally submitted false claims for payment, from at least 2020 to today, in violation of the FCA, IFCA and ICFPA, by fraudulently billing for medically unnecessary testing.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 15.

16. Applewhite and Five Apples also knowingly and intentionally submitted false claims for payment, from at least 2020 to today, in violation of the FCA, IFCA and ICFPA, by billing for services that were not performed.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient knowledge or information from which to either admit or deny the allegations as specifically pled in Paragraph 16. Answering in the affirmative, upon information and belief, Roseland admits that Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples submitted certain fraudulent claims for payment, of which it informed representatives of the United States Government.

17. Based on these Acts, the Relator seeks to recover on behalf of the United States and the State of Illinois against the Defendants all available damages, civil penalties, and other relief.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 17 only to the extent that it describes the nature of the relief sought in this lawsuit. Roseland denies any liability under the FCA, the IFCA and/or the ICFPA.

He is currently employed by Roseland Community Hospital as a Senior Director of Development. He also serves as Roseland's coordinator for COVID-19 testing.

ANSWER: Upon information and belief, Roseland admits that Relator is a citizen and resident of the State of Illinois. Roseland admits that Relator has worked in the healthcare field for about 25 years. Roseland admits that at the time of the filing of the Complaint, Relator was employed by Roseland as a Senior Director of Development, and that Relator also served as Roseland's coordinator for COVID-19 testing. This Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the state claim pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367.

ANSWER: Paragraph 23 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent such a response is necessary, Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 23.

24. There have been no public disclosures of the allegations or transactions contained herein that bar jurisdiction under 31 U.S.C. §3730(e).

ANSWER: Paragraph 24 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland denies the allegations as pled in Paragraph 24. Answering further in the affirmative, Roseland states that it informed representatives of the United States Government regarding Dr. Applewhite's billing practices but lacks knowledge as to whether there have been any other public disclosures of the allegations or transactions contained in the Complaint that bar jurisdiction.

25. This Court has personal jurisdiction over the defendants pursuant to 31 U.S.C. §3732(a) because that section authorizes nationwide service of process and because all the defendants have at least minimum contacts with the United States, and can be found in, reside, or transact or have transacted, business in the Northern District of Illinois.

27. This action is not based on a public disclosure. Nevertheless, to the extent that there has been a public disclosure unknown to Montenegro, Montenegro is an original source under 31

U.S.C. §3730(e)(4). He has direct and independent knowledge of the information on which the allegations herein are based.

ANSWER: Paragraph 27 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required. Further answering, Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to either admit or deny the allegations of Paragraph 27 and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

IV. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

A. Reimbursement for Medical Services with Medicare, Medicaid, and Private Insurance

28. In 1965, Congress enacted Title XVIII of the Social Security Act, known as "Medicare," to pay for certain medical services and care. Entitlement to Medicare is based on age, disability or affliction with certain diseases. See 42 U.S.C. §1395 to 1395 ccc.

ANSWER: Paragraph 28 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 28.

29. Medicare is administered by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services ("HHS") and supervised by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS"). Medicare pays claims submitted by participating health care providers for medical services rendered to Medicare beneficiaries.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 29.

30. In 1965, the federal government also enacted the Medicaid program, a cooperative undertaking between the federal and state governments to help the states provide health care to low-income individuals. The Medicaid program pays for services pursuant to plans developed by the states and approved by the Secretary of HHS, through CMS. 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396a(a)-(b). States pay doctors, hospitals, pharmacies, and other providers and suppliers of medical items and services according to established rates. 42 U.S.C. §§1396b(a)(1), 1903(a)(1). The federal government then pays each state a statutorily established share of "the total amount expended ... as medical assistance under the State plan." See 42 U.S.C. §1396b(a)(1).

ANSWER: Paragraph 30 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 30.

31. The Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services ("HFS") administers the Medicaid program for the State of Illinois which receives more than half of the money for the program from the United States government. HFS administers the Medicaid program in accordance with the regulations of HHS and CMS to compensate healthcare professionals for services provided to Medicaid recipients.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 31.

32. All claims for reimbursement are submitted to HFS and reimbursed in combination by both the U.S. government and the State of Illinois according to the federal medical assistance percentage established by HHS.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 32.

33. At all times relevant to this Complaint, the United States provided funds to Illinois through the Medicaid program, pursuant to Title XIX of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. §1396 et seq.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 33.

34. Under the Social Security Act, medical care providers may seek payment from the United States for providing "reasonable and necessary" health care services. 42 U.S.C.

1395y(a)(1). As a condition of billing the Government, and receiving Government reimbursement or funding, Defendants are required to certify and ensure that all services provided are medically necessary and are supported by documentation. 42 U.S.C. §1320c-5(a); 42 C.F.R. §466.71(d), 1004.10.

ANSWER: Paragraph 34 presents a legal conclusion to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 34.

35. Health care providers submit Medicare and Medicaid bills electronically.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits that the allegations of Paragraph 35 are true as a matter of general industry practice.

36. Numerous private insurers also reimburse health care providers for services performed on beneficiaries.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits that the allegations of Paragraph 36 are true as a matter of general industry practice.

37. In order to obtain reimbursements from insurers for services provided, medical providers typically submit an electronic form itemizing the services and charges associated with the services. Payment by private insurers for these services are conditioned upon medical care providers following federal and state law.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits that the allegations of Paragraph 37 are true as a matter of general industry practice.

38. Health care providers use Current Procedural Terminology ("CPT") codes. CPT codes are a uniform way to accurately describe medical, surgical and diagnostic services provided to patients and the codes are required when billing for services rendered to government and private insurers.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits that the allegations of Paragraph 38 are true as a matter of general industry practice.

B. The COVID-19 Pandemic and Testing for COVID-19

39. In early 2020, the United States, and the world, faced an unprecedented pandemic as a result of COVID-19 (the "Pandemic").

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 39.

40. In response to the Pandemic, Congress passed The Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFCRA) on March 18, 2020 and mandated that Medicare, Medicaid, and private insurance plans cover COVID-19 diagnostic testing and administration costs without cost-sharing.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 40.

41. The CARES Act was enacted on March 27, 2020. Section 3201 of the CARES Act amended section 6001 of the FFCRA to include a broader range of diagnostic items and services that plans and issuers must cover without any cost-sharing requirements, prior authorization or other medical management requirements.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 41.

42. Section 6008 of the FFCRA authorized a 6.2% increase in federal Medicaid matching funds to help states adequately respond to the COVID-19 Pandemic.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 42.

43. Two different types of COVID-19 tests that are relevant here are used in the context of COVID-19. The first is a polymerase chain reaction (PCR) test that detects the presence of a virus if someone is infected at the time of the test. A PCR test is performed by taking a nasal or saliva swab.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 43.

44. The second type of test is a serology (or antibody) test that looks for antibodies in blood to determine if one had a past infection with the virus that causes COVID-19.

ANSWER: Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 44.

45. CMS determined that both PCR and serology tests qualified for reimbursement. However, the basic requirements that medical services be reasonable and medically necessary still applied to COVID-19 testing. Thus, for a claim to be payable it must be medically necessary.

ANSWER: Paragraph 45 presents a legal conclusion as to the requirements for reimbursement for PCR and serology tests to which no response is required by Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 45.

46. It is the responsibility of the health care provider to conduct an individualized evaluation of each patient and to make a determination about what tests or services, if any, are medically appropriate in accordance with accepted standards of current medical practice. Determining medical necessity involves an assessment of the clinical condition, diagnosis, history and other clinical indications individual to each patient.

ANSWER: Paragraph 46 presents a legal conclusion for which no response is required from Roseland. To the extent a response is required, Roseland generally admits the allegations of Paragraph 46.

C. Roseland's Scheme to Defraud the Government and Private-Pavors by Prescribing and Submitting Claims for Reimbursement for Medically Unnecessary Tests

47. In February of 2020, in response to the increase in COVID-19 cases, Roseland geared up to perform COVID-19 testing.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that in February of 2020, it was engaged in preparations to provide COVID-19 testing.

48. Applewhite was named as Roseland's Medical Director of its COVID-19 Initiative at the time.

ANSWER: Roseland admits the allegations of Paragraph 48.

49. Roseland's COVID-19 initiative was multi-faceted and included the development of a drive-thru testing system to facilitate COVID-19 testing for the community. Negative results were provided by email and positive results were provided via a phone call by a clinician, usually a nurse.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that its COVID-19 initiative included the development of a drive-thru testing system to facilitate COVID-19 testing for the community. Roseland further admits that generally, negative results were provided by email and/or letter and positive results were provided by a phone call by a clinician.

50. Initially, Roseland sent its collected samples to Quest Diagnostics for analysis. Later, AML secured equipment and reagents to perform such testing onsite at Roseland Community Hospital using its own equipment and personnel. Roseland and AML's established relationship allowed Roseland to bill for the facility and administrative piece of the COVID-19 testing, while AML billed for the processing and review of the tests results.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that Roseland initially sent its collected samples to Quest Diagnostics for analysis. Roseland further admits that AML secured equipment and reagents to perform such testing onsite at Roseland Community Hospital using its own equipment and personnel. Roseland further admits that Roseland generally billed for facility and administrative aspects of the COVID-19 testing pursuant to a contract with AML. Upon information and belief, Roseland denies that AML billed third-parties for the processing and review of the tests results.

51. There was a high demand to identify active COVID-19 infections and to contact and quarantine infected patients. This was the purpose of the PCR diagnostic test. However, when Roseland realized it could bill patients for both a PCR test and a serology test, regardless of need, it developed a policy that was based not on the medical needs of the individual patient, but rather on the profits to be gained trading on the public's fear of COVID-19 to encourage unnecessary serology tests.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that there was a high demand to identify active COVID-19 infections and to contact and quarantine infected patients. Roseland further admits that the purpose of the PCR diagnostic test was to identify active COVID-19 infections. However, Roseland denies the allegation that its COVID-19 testing policy was developed based on a realization that it could bill patients for both a PCR test and a serology test regardless of need, as the allegation is pled. Roseland further denies that its COVID-19 testing policy encouraged unnecessary serology tests based on profits to be gained trading on the public's fear of COVID-19, as the allegation is pled.

52. On March 31, 2020, Roseland developed a written COVID-19 testing policy whereby the determination of whether a PCR test, a serology test, or both, would be given was ostensibly left up to the patient without regard to any physician's determination of medical necessity. However, patients were left to make this decision based on one-sided information that encouraged patients to unwittingly elect unnecessary serology tests.

ANSWER: Roseland denies Paragraph 52 in its entirety based on the allegations as pled. Answering in the affirmative, Roseland admits that Dr. Applewhite issued a memorandum regarding Roseland's in-house COVID-19 testing program that speaks for itself.

53. In furtherance of this scheme, Roseland failed to advise its patients that a serology test would not test for an active COVID-19 infection, instead emphasizing that serology test results would be provided within 24 hours while PCR test results would take 3-7 days. Not surprisingly, with this misleading information, upwards of 95% of patients opted for a serology test, often in conjunction with a PCR test — both of which were administered and billed for regardless of actual medical necessity.

ANSWER: Roseland denies Paragraph 53 in its entirety based on the allegations as pled.

54. This policy of encouraging unnecessary serology tests regardless of the patient's clinical condition continues at Roseland to this day.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 54.

55. Defendants knew that in order to bill Medicare and Medicaid for this testing, a physician's order was needed and that this required a physician to conduct an individualized assessment of each patient and develop a plan of care which included testing and services which were medically necessary. Despite this, no doctor at Roseland made any independent determination of the medical necessity of either type of COVID-19 test for Roseland's patients.

Rather, Applewhite wrote a single prescription that was then was photocopied tens of thousands of times for different patients. This resulted in massive amounts of unnecessary care, overtreatment of patients, and overbilling to Medicare and private insurers, for the sole purpose of obtaining larger reimbursements and greater profits for Roseland, AML, Applewhite and Five Apples. Billing was submitted by a third-party known as "Change Healthcare."

ANSWER: Roseland denies the entirety of Paragraph 55 as pled.

56. By submitting orders for both PCR and serology testing without conducting individualized assessments of each patient's clinical condition, Roseland falsely represented to payors that each test was medically necessary.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 56.

57. In reality, the serology tests were not medically necessary or appropriate in the majority of cases. Roseland and the other defendants knew this yet continued to submit false claims for reimbursement with the intent to defraud the payors.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 57.

58. In addition to conducting both PCR and antibody testing Roseland decided it could use the drawn blood from the antibody testing to further defraud the government. Specifically, approximately three months into the Pandemic, Roseland decided to use the blood drawn for COVID-19 tests to test for additional, and unnecessary, conditions such as chlamydia pneumoniae (a bacterial infection), Mycoplasma pneumoniae (a bacterial infection), Bordetella (a bacterial infection) and other viruses. In other words, while patients came to the hospital for a COVID-19 test, Roseland ran and billed for a "full panel" of blood tests. These additional and unnecessary tests run automatically on all patients that received a COVID-19 serology test were not based on any determination as to whether such tests were medically necessary; the tests were conducted regardless of the patient's clinical condition, history or even desires; and the sole purpose of this additional testing was the enrichment of Roseland and the other defendants at the expense of third-party payors including Medicare, Medicaid and private insurance companies.

ANSWER: Roseland denies Paragraph 58 in its entirety based on the allegations as pled.

59. For example, Roseland would bill approximately $600 for a COVID-19 PCR and serology test but for the full panels of blood tests that Roseland determined to bill, this increased to upwards of thousands of dollars. On average, Roseland and AML could recoup up to an additional $600-$700 for each these full blood panels, in addition to the $150 they were receiving for the COVID-19 serology test. This was repeated in tens of thousands of cases.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 59 as pled.

60. Roseland and AML sent bills or claims for these medically unnecessary tests to Medicare, Medicaid, and to private insurers, including but not limited to Blue Cross Blue Shield, AMITA Health and UnitedHealthcare, falsely representing that these tests were medically necessary.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 60 as pled.

61. Relator realized that additional and unnecessary tests were being performed on patients' blood when he received an EOB for his own child who had a PCR and serology test performed. The EOB displayed $2,986 in submitted charges for what he thought was only COVID-19 testing but which in fact was both a PCR test and a full blood panel test for unrelated conditions not indicated whatsoever.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny certain allegations in Paragraph 61 and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

62. Relator expressed his concerns about this billing to both the CEO of Roseland, Tim Egan, and the CFO of Roseland, Robert Vais. When he asked why tests unrelated to COVID-19 were being performed, both Egan and Vais indicated that it was so Roseland could earn more profits. Both Egan and Vais also told Relator that AML, through its President Walid Dabaj, told them it was proper to run and bill for these additional tests.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the entirety of Paragraph 62 as pled. Answering in the affirmative Roseland states that Relator expressed his concerns about billing to both Tim Egan and Robert Vais of Roseland.

63. Roseland and AML incurred the same costs to run just the COVID-19 test as it incurred when it ran additional and unnecessary tests, so the increased billing for unnecessary full blood panels amounted to pure profit for them at the expense of the third-party payors, including the United States government, the State of Illinois and private insurance companies.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 63 as pled.

64. Roseland began receiving complaints from insured patients as they were receiving EOBs and/or bills that showed amounts owed for this additional testing. Concerned about patients complaining to the government or their insurers about the unnecessary testing, Roseland and AML sent letters on "Change Healthcare" letterhead to these patients, indicating that the bill was in error and that no money was due for their co-payment. However, the claims to the Government payors and private insurers were not withdrawn. This was because Roseland and AML, potentially with the involvement of Change Healthcare, were looking to bilk only the Government and private insurers.

ANSWER: Roseland denies Paragraph 58 in its entirety based on the allegations as pled. Roseland admits that it received certain complaints from certain patients that were investigated.

D. Applewhite and Five Apples' Scheme to Defraud the Government and Private-Payors For Services Related to COVID-19 Testing They Did Not Provide

65. In addition to prescribing patients medically unnecessary blood work, Applewhite was submitting false claims for services related to COVID-19 testing through his practice, Five Apples. This included patients served at Roseland.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

66. In order to obtain reimbursement from insurers for services provided, Applewhite and AML were required to submit documentation to the payors describing the services performed and including a CPT code that indicated the type and level of services performed by the provider. By submitting claims for payment or reimbursement physicians represent to government payors and private insurance companies that the medical services for which the particular CPT code represents, were in fact performed.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or AML specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered and therefore demands strict proof thereof. Roseland admits that the allegations set forth in Paragraph 66 outline the general process for seeking reimbursement from insurers for certain types of services provided.

67. Routinely during the relevant period, Applewhite knowingly created and presented for reimbursement false and fraudulent claims for payment for medical services that neither he nor Five Apples provided. In total, this included tens of thousands of claims for reimbursement of $144 per patient under CPT Code 99203.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

68. These claims were false because CPT Code 99203 requires that there be an office or other outpatient visit for the evaluation and management of a new patient. Such visits require three key components: taking of a detailed patient history; conducting a detailed examination of the patient; and making a medical decision based on the information the physician thus learns. For services provided using this code, physicians typically spend 30 minutes face-to-face with the patient and/or family.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered and therefore demands strict proof thereof. Roseland admits that the allegations set forth in Paragraph 68 outline the general parameters for CPT Code 99203.

69. In Applewhite's case, however, he did not conduct patient visits, consult with the patients, review their COVID-19 results or communicate those results to them. Nevertheless, Applewhite and Five Apples continually submitted false claims for reimbursement for patient visits resulting from the COVID-19 testing.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered, or the scope or lack of services rendered, and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

70. Beginning in 2020 and continuing through his termination from Roseland, Applewhite and Five Apples, in furtherance of their scheme to defraud, submitted to Medicare/Medicaid and third-party payors bills and claims for reimbursement for services not provided, all with the intent of deceiving government payors and private insurers into paying false claims related to tens of thousands of patient visits purportedly conducted by Applewhite but which did not occur.

ANSWER: Roseland denies the allegations of Paragraph 70.

71. Relator realized that Five Apples was billing for Applewhite's time when another member of his family was tested for COVID-19 at Roseland, and the EOB showed a claim by Five Apples under CPT Code 99203. However, Relator knew that Applewhite had not seen his family member or been involved in his testing process. Additionally, due to Relator's position at Roseland and his conversations with high level administrative personnel, he also knew that all the processing and reviewing of testing was done by AML.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Relator knew or realized, or when it was known or realized, and therefore demands strict proof of the allegations set forth in Paragraph 71.

72. On or about September 20, 2020, Relator informed Egan that Applewhite was falsely billing for patient visits, when in fact he had no contact with the patients. In response, Roseland ultimately terminated its professional relationship with Applewhite. However, Roseland never disclosed these false billings to any government agency or private insurer and continues to conceal the conduct.

ANSWER: Roseland admits that in September of 2020, Relator and Egan discussed Dr. Applewhite and his general billing practices and whether he was seeing certain patients. Roseland also admits that it subsequently terminated its professional relationship with Dr. Applewhite. Roseland denies the remaining allegations set forth in Paragraph 72.

73. On information and belief, Applewhite billed for approximately 20,000 to 25,000 patient visits, receiving $144 for each, resulting in between $2.88 and $3.6 million in fraudulent billing to government and private insurers.

ANSWER: Roseland lacks sufficient information from which to admit or deny what Dr. Applewhite and/or Five Apples specifically did with regard to the submissions of reimbursement claims for certain professional services rendered and therefore demands strict proof thereof.

74. The matters alleged herein have not been "publicly disclosed" within the meaning of the FCA.

ANSWER: The allegations set forth in Paragraph 74 constitute a legal conclusion to which no response is required. To the extent a response is required, Roseland lacks sufficient knowledge from which to admit or deny whether the matters herein have been "publicly disclosed" by any third party within the meaning of the FCA. Roseland further states that it informed representatives of the United States Government regarding Dr. Applewhite's billing practices.
